

Practical Emergency Management

Be ready to cope with the unknown

In an emergency situation, you need to know that your organisation and its employees are competent enough to cope well. Our three day training programme will enable delegates to respond effectively through learning the specific techniques and principles of emergency management response and leadership.

Suitable for all industries and organisations, the programme covers the fundamentals of Emergency Management. It can be tailored to suit the needs of your organisation and employees. Senior managers, shift supervisors, plant managers, safety managers and Business Continuity practitioners will all benefit considerably from the course.

Held at our unique Management Training Facility in Derby, delegates will develop their skills under the most demanding and realistic conditions through innovative event simulation in a controlled environment.

This live, hands-on approach is supported by workshops.

Issues addressed include:

- Emergency management and leadership
- Emergency management and response
- The role of the Emergency Manager
- Team building
- Commercial and public interest issues
- Information management and use
- Interface with Emergency Services
- Dealing with the media
- Stress management

This programme can be taken in-house.
